Professional experience summary

Rachel Quintana is the leader of Ernst & Young's Denver sales and use tax practice and delivers quality solutions to clients throughout the world. She has over 20 years of sales and use tax experience and advises clients in a variety of industries to help drive efficiency and decrease risk.

Her practice includes assisting clients with sales and use tax data strategy and technology-enabled solutions, process improvement reviews, planning and structuring strategy, evaluating economic nexus and marketplace facilitator issues, compliance, controversy, look-back reviews, voluntary disclosure agreements, private letter rulings, and ASC 450 sales and use tax reserve analysis.

Prior to joining Ernst & Young, Rachel served as the Tax Manager for the City of Thornton, CO. In this position Rachel was highly involved with the Colorado home rule community and grew a diverse network among Colorado tax administrators. Rachel serves as EY's Colorado state desk for sales and use tax technical matters.

Rachel enjoys sharing her knowledge by authoring thought leadership and through speaking engagements at professional organization conferences and industry groups forums.
