

Alexandra Sampson, Esq., is State Tax Counsel with The Hearst Corporation, a leading global, diversified media, information and services company with more than 360 businesses. In her role, Alexandra has overall responsibility for Hearst's state and local income tax controversy and appeals and manages the state income and franchise tax audit team.

Prior to joining Hearst, Alexandra was a senior associate attorney in the Washington, D.C. office of the law firm of Alston & Bird LLP and, before that, Reed Smith LLP. In the multinational law firm setting, Alexandra's practice focused on corporate income tax matters, with an emphasis on issues in the Capital Region (D.C., Maryland and Virginia) and the Carolinas, and unclaimed property. She is a former Chair of the State and Local Tax Section of the District of Columbia Bar Association and a past Graduate Fellow with the Council on State Taxation (COST). She has served as a law clerk to, and in the administration of, a former South Carolina State Treasurer and former Director of the South Carolina Department of Revenue. Alexandra received her Bachelor of Science in Accounting from the College of Charleston, J.D. from the University of South Carolina, and LL.M. in Taxation from Georgetown University Law Center.

In addition to her career in law and taxation, Alexandra is an advocate for women's self-care and work-life well-being, with a focus on issues pertaining to breadwinning women.